

honourable chief guest Good morning[^] respected principal ma'am, vice principal ma'am, teachers & all my dear friends. This is probably my last speech here so I would like to keep it short and simple. Today I want to tell you about 3 things ^{I have learnt}, 3 things that's it.

The first being passion.

"Love what you do, do what you love".

Your work is going to fill a large part of your life, and the only way to be truly satisfied is to do great work and the only way to do great work is to do what you love. Passion helps you do great work. Passion is more motivating than any possible external materialistic source of motivation. Passion for what you do guarantees success. If you are passionate about dancing then dance, singing then sing, drawing then draw, everything else is secondary. Quoting Confucius

"Choose a job you love, and you won't have to work a day in your life".

Quoting Steve Jobs

"Life is too short for living some one else's dream".

Now I would like to tell you something about hardwork.

There is no substitute for hardwork. Shortcuts are always longer and more painful. Hardwork is always and always will be the line between victory & failure. It's always the guy who's willing to die who wins the fight. To work hard, you need to be passionate. People often complain that motivation is temporary. So is bathing, hence we recommend it daily. Work hard without complaints. Let nothing stop you. Sometimes life is going to hit you in the head with a brick don't lose faith. Greatness exists in all of us. Never lose hope never lose faith.

Now the third thing : Dream Big

"Those who are crazy enough to think they can change the world are the ones who actually do".
Be insanely great.

Don't grow up thinking where you are that's where you want to be. Dream Bigger. Make a dent in the universe. Change the world. Make it a better place.

Gandhiji said and I quote

"Be the change, you want to see in the world"

Live your dream. Life is too short for living someone else's dream.

I want you people to know that life is not linear. It's organic. Have one goal. A big goal. But the path you take might not be the shortest, easiest path. You might go in loops but do reach your goal. Believe in yourself. Make your life mean something. Be unrealistic. Being realistic is the easiest way to mediocrity. He who thinks he can and he who thinks he can't both are right. I would like to end this by quoting Steve Jobs again

"Stay Hungry, Stay Foolish"

Best of luck for life. Thank You.
